

The Beat

April 6, 2008

by Rebecca Haynes Mott

PreTeen Teacher
© 2007 HeartShaper®
Curriculum. All rights reserved.

Permission is granted to reproduce this page for ministry purposes only—not for resale.

Week after week, they've been out there, pouring their hearts into their work, sharing their stories with anyone who would listen. But did anyone hear? At the 21st annual Kids' Choice Awards on March 29, fans sent their answer loud and clear. Nickelodeon viewers cast more than 88 million online votes to show which performers they've followed and adored in the past year. The volume of the audience screams was a perfect indicator of the winners. The biggest screams were for Miley Cyrus (aka Hannah Montana), the Jonas Brothers, and Drake Bell and Josh Peck of "Drake & Josh."

The award show was loud, fun, and slimy. When Orlando Bloom was doused with "27 tons" of slime host, Jack Black's promise of the slimiest show ever was fulfilled.

THINK ABOUT IT

- How did fans let the performers know they love and appreciate them?
- Why was it important for fans to respond to the invitation to show their love and appreciation?

Let's Communicate!

Communication is a two-way street. People share their gifts or good news with others; recipients respond with support, encouragement, and appropriate action. Think of a recent time when you've experienced good communication with someone. Share your "two-way street story" with the class!

God communicated His desire to save you through His Son, Jesus. What will you communicated back to God this week?